RENEWAL OF ALLIED DRIVE IN FLANDERS BELIEVED AT HAND

Russian Situation Is Complex, With Stiff Resistance in Some Sectors.

The Austro German Forces Are Driven Back at One Point in East—1,300 Russ Captured.

The Russian front situation continues complex with Russian troops offering spirited resistance and driving back the Austro-German forces in some sectors and yielding weakly in others.

Ten miles from Chotin, just beyond the extreme southeast corner of Galicia the teutons have been forced back, according to advices today.

In Bukowina on the other hand the Russians have been forced to yield more ground in one case because of the voluntary retirement of two regiments.

Petrograd concedes a retirement in the Fokshani region in Romania, near the point where the lines turn southeast toward the Danube. Berlin announces the storming of Russian positions and the taking of 1,300 prisoners and 13 guns.

In Flanders the infantry has continued inactive but the total silence of the battery official reports and conditions there coupled with the reports of greatly increased air activity seems indicative of a probable renewal of the entente offensive.

PRODUCTION COSTS ARE INVESTIGATED

President Wilson Pays Visit to the Boards Having Work in Charge.

By Associated Press Dispatch

Washington, Aug. 7.—President Wilson today took a hand in the government's plans for regulating prices and conferred with officials who have charge of the work. First he went to the Federal Trade Commission and then the department of justice. Both departments are working on keeping prices on materials for war needs down.

The president spent half an hour at the trade commission inquiring particularly as to the investigation of the cost of producing coal, steel and lumber.

After he left, the commission issued a statement, saying:

The president was here today to confer with the commission as to the progress being made in the cost determining work being conducted.

QUARREL OVER CUSTODY OF CHILD PRECEDED SHOOTING OF DE SAULLES

MR. AND MRS. JOHN L. DE SAULLES AND CHILD

Probably no shooting case in recent years aroused so much excitement in society circles as that of John L. De Saulles by the woman who divorced him. The shooting occurred at the home of Mr. De Saulles.

"The Box," near Westbury, N. Y. The dead man was prominent in society, business and politics and famous in sport as one of the best football players and captains Yale ever had. The shooting took place after a quarrel over the custody of the four-year-old son of the couple.

Mrs. De Saulles was formerly Senorita Bianca Errazuliz of Santiago, Chile. She came of a prominent and wealthy Chilean family, one of her uncles having been president of the republic, while she was heiress to million invested in railroad and mining interests. She was seventeen years old when she was married six years ago.

De Saulles was thirty-eight years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur De Saulles of South Bethlehem, Pa.

DRAFT RESISTERS ARE ROUNDED UP AND IMPRISONED

Will be Tried Upon Treason Charges, and U. S. Attorney Demands Death Penalty be Punishment.

By Associated Press Dispatch

Oklahoma City, Aug. 7.—The hunt for draft resisters in three counties of southern Oklahoma is nearing a close. Officers believed today they had placed more than half of the working class union membership estimated at 500 to 600 in the state penitentiary and county jails.

Preliminary examinations of prisoners taken to McAllister will begin there tomorrow before U. S. Commissioner Robert N. McMillen. The United States attorney has announced that draft resisters will be tried on conspiracy and treason charges and the death penalty will be asked.

One hundred are under arrest at Holdenville, having been taken into custody last night, 72 were lodged in the state penitentiary this morning and 17 arrested near McAllister in the county jail.

Associated Press Dispatch

London, Aug. 7.—Captain Basil Hood, dramatic author, was found dead in London today.

Captain Hood was 53 years of age and wrote copiously for the stage, mostly in the lighter vein.

"The Rose of Persia" and "Ib and Little Christina" were perhaps the best known of his serious plays. He made the English translation of "The Merry Widows."

In the meantime the candidates will be advised by mail of their selection.

SECOND SEA LORD LET OUT

Associated Press Dispatch

London, Aug. 6, (delayed)—Official announcement was made at the admiralty tonight that Admiral Sir Cecil Berney, second sea Lord, had been replaced by Vice Admiral Sir Roselyn Wemyss. Alan Garrett Anderson hitherto vice chairman of the wheat commission, succeeds Sir Eric Campbell Geddes, the new first lord of the admiralty as controller of naval construction.

National war intelligence bureau is a development of the last few days in Washington. Henry L. Stimson of New York, former secretary of war, will be virtually, if not nominally, at the head of it. At the outbreak of the war the secret service department found that it was divided into nine branches. Out of this tangle the best solution was an agreement to co-operate as far as practicable and divide the field among them. The president solved the problem by providing funds for the expansion of the war department's bureau. Spying around has always been dangerous business, but when the new bureau gets going woe unto unfriendly aliens and disloyal Americans.

DISTRICT BOARDS ADOPT RESOLUTION ON EXEMPTION WORK

THE ALLIED CONFERENCE IS RENEWED

(Associated Press Cable)

London, August 7.—A conference of the representatives of the Entente Allies, a continuation of the Paris conference, was commenced in London this morning, with David Lloyd George presiding.

Among those present at the conference were: Premier Ribot, minister of war Painlevé, of France; Baron Sonnino, the Italian Foreign Minister; A. J. Balfour, the British Foreign Secretary, and Arthur Henderson, and the other members of the British War Cabinet.

All the Entente Allies in fact were represented either by Ambassadors, Ministers or special representatives.

The general rule to govern the board is the only one that was adopted at the first session, but it is considered a highly important one in that it will prevent personal pleas by claimants.

The entire session was given over to a general discussion of regulations with explanation and counsel by Attorney Davis, appointed to represent the president in final appeals.

The biggest questions are yet to be disposed of. How far the boards can go in exempting those engaged in agriculture pursuits and what is meant by "certain industrial occupations" are two that developed lengthy discussion. Until there is a definite ruling from the president the boards will use their discretion.

An instance of the few exemptions that may be allowed was cited by one board member. A contractor having a large number employed at the Chillicothe encampment where the draft army will be trained, asked for exemption of only three men. These men he considered as absolutely necessary in building the camp. The others can be replaced.

TO BUY MEYERS BUILDING AND NEW FIRE EQUIPMENT

$4250 to Be Expended for the Structure South of Engine House, and $2000 for Police Auto and Combination Fire Truck—Fayette Street Assessment Ordinance Passed—Other Business.

The regular session of the city dads proved of more interest than anticipated. Monday night, and considerable business was transacted, including the passage of an ordinance for the purchase of the Meyers building immediately south of the Engine house at $4250; the purchase of a combination motor hook and ladder and fire engine and automobile for use of the police; the authorization of heavy bond issues, borrowing money, and other matters of more or less importance.

A request from George Inskeep to have the sidewalk on Millikan avenue extended to the shoe factory, as originally planned, was referred to the Service Committee. It was also moved and passed that the property owners be notified to construct the sidewalk without further delay.

Street is Named.

The street across Paint creek valley from North street to Millikan avenue, upon motion of Howell, was named Oakland Avenue, being an extension, it was claimed, of Oakland Avenue.

The Service Committee was not ready to report on the improvement of Draper and Temple streets.

Ordinance Rejected.

The ordinance to declare the B. & O. stock pens a nuisance and have them abated, was placed on its second reading. Bloomer, Veail and Whelpley voting for it and the other four solons voting against it. It was stated that the B. & O. had promised to have the pens concreted within five weeks, and to concrete the dumping place and slope the entire floor space so that it would drain into the sewer along the tracks.

To Buy Meyers Building.

Then came the ordinance to purchase the Meyers building, the old two-story brick structure south of the Engine House. The ordinance was one of "necessity" and authorized the expenditure of $4250 for the building this amount to be taken from the $7,000 received for the city lot. All voted for the measure except Howell, and it is expected that the building will be purchased without delay.

FILES SUIT ASKING AN ACCOUNTING AND END OF PARTNERSHIP

In the Fayette County Court of Common Pleas, Jacob L. Jamison has filed suit against Benjamin Jamison, asking for an accounting and dissolution of partnership, and that a receiver be appointed to handle certain property involved in the action. The plaintiff is represented by John Logan.

The plaintiff declares that in October 1913 he and the defendant entered into partnership for the handling of the sale of 895 acres of land, the Lucy Jones estate, in Madison township, Fayette county, and Pickaway county, and as partners were to share profits deriving from the transaction.

Plaintiff declares the estate was priced to the partners at $85 per acre, and that they sold the same to Chas. Persinger at $110 per acre, and that the purchaser traded certain property in this city as part of the $98,442.40 payment, the property in this city being accepted as worth $40,000. Part of the latter property was disposed of to J. A. Melvin, at $10,000, and part to Chas. Allen at $8,000, and a lot to Chas. Johnson, defendant holding title to remainder.

Plaintiff charges that he is entitled to part of the proceeds from transaction, and has asked for an accounting, but defendant declines to accede to his demands, wherefore he asks an accounting; dissolution of partnership; appointment of a receiver to manage the property involved, and his portion of the profits.

BIG FIGURES SHOW WORK OF BRITAIN

London, August 7.—The British merchant marine has carried successfully to their destinations 8,000,000 men and 10,000,000 tons of war material, said Commander Dion Catthorpe recently, describing the work done by the Navy.

In six months of last year only one in a thousand ships passing through Dover patrol had been sunk or damaged.

Up to January of this year not a life had been lost in the transport of men from this country to France.

In the course of the war 1,000,000 sick and wounded men had been transported to this country, more than 1,000,000 horses and mules, 50,000,000 gallons of petrol, 100,000,000 hundred-weight of wheat and 7,000,000 tons of iron ore.

Referring to submarines he said there were a great many German widows and orphans who doubted the success of the U-boat. There were many women in Germany whose husbands did not come back.

The Shipping Agreement

The shipping agreement entered into by the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia, Belgium and the nations composing the alliance is one of the most powerful weapons yet brought into play against Germany and the neutral nations.

Under that agreement it is proposed to control the combined shipping of the great commercial nations of the world. Not only will all the ships be subject to the regulations of the combined organization but practically all the commerce of the world will be directed by it.

So far the organization is a war measure designed to protect shipping and decrease the submarine toll as well as to make more effective the blockade of the central powers.

The most important feature however is the probability that the present agreement, although perhaps in modified form, will continue after the close of the war and that probability should exert a powerful influence in bringing the neutral nations into the alliance against Germany at least to the extent of cutting off all commercial relations with the central powers.

The probable permanence of the shipping agreement is another evidence of how small our world has grown in territorial extent—how distance has been eliminated and what close neighbors the nations of the earth have become.

The agreement is also a forceful argument in favor of combination. That the progress of the commercial and industrial world can no longer go forward by individual national effort any more than this nation could meet and take advantage of its tremendous opportunities by individual effort. The field has become too extensive, the demands are too enormous for the individual to surmount.

The private American combination which has run the gauntlet of political abuse, and in many instances justly so, bids fair to become the pattern for big business of the world and it is fortunate that we have been able, by agitation if you please, to so clearly mark out the distinction between a just combination of wealth and an iniquitous monopoly that the world understands.

After all the battle against combination has about run its course and people are beginning to see the necessity for united effort in national and international development.

The present commercial combination, when considered carefully, is far more menacing to Germany's future than the combined armies of the allies. Although present war needs are the immediate cause it is unlikely that such a great force for national progress will be abandoned when the present need passes.

The effect on the commerce of Germany and the few neutrals, after the war, is not difficult to discern.

The Oklahoma Resistance

The national and state authorities dealt promptly and firmly with the rioters in Oklahoma who were resisting the army draft.

Indians, negroes and half breeds—irresponsibles and outlaws such as are developed in the wild free life of that new country—composed the law defying element which the posses of national and state officials soon put to rout.

Nearly all of the ring leaders have been apprehended and are now confined in the prisons of the state.

The spirit of the resistance to the federal law which activated the ruffians and outlaws, the type of men who composed the mobs, was disclosed when one of the leaders was arrested trying to escape disguised as a woman and accompanied by two women members of his family.

That's the kind of cowards who do not harken to the call of the nation and organized to resist the enforcement of law.

While the authorities were gathering the posses together to enforce the law the irresponsibles made quite a show of disorder, burning railroad bridges and otherwise carrying things with a high hand.

When confronted with an organized force armed with the authority of the law, the resistance soon collapsed and the cowardly disposition of the ringleaders showed plainly when the veneer of bravado was dropped.

What appeared at first, to those who didn't make due allowance for the type of men involved in the disorders to be serious, flattened out most ignobly.

Poetry For Today

I WANT A FRIEND.

I want a friend who will shout "Hey, Jack!"
"Hello!" and "How d' do?"
I want a friend who will smile and nod,
A friend who is close to the heart of God.
A friend who knows of the soil and the sod.
Oh, a friend like that is stanch and true!

I want a friend who will grip my hand
With a grip that makes me wince.
A friend whose fist is big and strong.
A friend who labors the whole day long.
Who tackles his task with a battle song.
Aye, he is the man to be called a prince.

I want a friend, be he rich or poor,
If his heart is clean and clear.
A man who is loved by children all
And romping boys respond to his call.
I want him near when the shadows fall;
God give us such men for our safety here!

I want a friend when I'm old and worn
And the finger of Death is marking my end.
I want a friend to sit at my side,
A friend to love—a friend who has cried,
To steady my hand as I cross the divide—
RH petition God for such a friend.—Los Angeles Times.

Wonders of a Book.

There is perhaps no greater wonder than a book. By the help of little figures upon spines or paper men have been able to transmit their thoughts through thousands of years. The names and shapes of things, the deeds and sorrows that have occurred as far back as Adam, have been made known to us. Even those invisible and abstract thoughts which have no shape or substance, but which inspired the writer and have since inspired others, are all put down in the little letters and made eternal. The songs of David, the speculations of Plato, the visions of Homer, have by these means been handed down faithfully for many centuries and distributed among mankind. If there were no books our knowledge would almost be confined to the limit of sight and hearing. All that we could not see or hear would be like the inhabitants of the planet Saturn—a mere matter of idle conjecture.—Barry Cornwall.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The plan of Anthony Czarnecki to tear out 150,000 public school spelling books entitled "The Kaiser in the Making" was defeated 7 to 3 at a meeting of the school board here today. By a similar vote Mr. Czarnecki's resolution to report "elsewhere" the names of parents who refuse to let their children eliminate the page with its complimentary reference to the German Emperor was lost. By "elsewhere" Mr. Czarnecki referred to the federal authorities.

The board granted a request of Superintendent of Schools, John D. Shoop to eliminate 40 pages including the offending page from 70,000 spellers still in the hands of the board.

"DEAD ENDS" IN THE WATER SYSTEM ARE BRANDED AS RISKY

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Columbus, O., Aug. 7.—Millions of dollars of capital invested in huge plants, many making war materials, is menaced by improperly constructed water supply systems in many cities in Ohio, according to a statement from the office of Fire Marshal T. Alfred Fleming. One of the biggest "mistakes" in water systems is the "dead end," which is described as a water pipe with no circulation—the water simply backing up in it from the running main, fills the pipe and—that's all.

Some of the evils have been discovered in the state's efforts to reduce fire hazards, other than the "dead end" one.

Besides having little or no circulation, "dead end" connections for water supply very frequently get stopped up with sand, mud and debris and the pipe, dangerous when clean, loses from 50 to 66 2/3 per cent of its efficiency.

In a recent fire in a half-million dollar building containing contents worth $250,000 the water supply was found to come not only from dead ends but from hydrants located across two main line railway tracks. A circulation system passed under the tracks would have made possible an increase in pressure from 35 pounds to 80 pounds, it was estimated and the danger of stringing hose across used tracks eliminated.

VATICAN MAY CHANGE POLICY

The retirement of the secretary, it is asserted, will permit the inauguration of a new policy by the Vatican toward Germany.

In another case it was found that the dead end hydrant was so close to the burning building that it was impossible for the firemen to work, the hose being burned as fast as coupling was attempted.

In a city of 3,000 it was found that there was not sufficient water to fight a fire and that, moreover, there was not enough to flush a fine new sewer system built three years ago, leaving industrial plants, private residences and the health and wealth of the community at the mercy of chance.

"Appalling instances of almost criminal negligence have been found in small towns that really are suburbs of larger cities, and a conflagration in any one of them would be a menace to the bigger places," said Fire Marshal Fleming. "Some depend on cisterns for their water supply, and upon hand-operated 'engines' that went out of date 50 years ago. The hose, too, was carried on reels drawn by hand and the equipment had neither been tested nor inspected for years. If it rained, there was water, if drought came, they took a chance."

"The investigation of the Fire Prevention Association, the Ohio Inspection Bureau and the State Fire Marshal's Office shows that hundreds of plants are entirely at the mercy of the deadliest enemy of all—fire!"

SEEKS BAIL

By American Press

New York, Aug. 7.—A fight to get freedom on bail for Mrs. Bianca De Saulles charged with murdering her husband, has been started by her lawyers. At the same time they pleaded with relatives of the slain man, asking that Jack De Saulles, four, innocent cause of the shooting, be permitted to visit his mother in the Mineola jail.

Henry A. Uterazdt, counsel for Mrs. De Saulles, declined application for her release on bail will be made on ground that confinement in jail of the high strung Chilean beauty will undermine her health.

The mother's lawyers have not located the child. They visited the Long Island estates of several friends of the family hunting for him.

Mrs. De Saulles fears her husband's relatives will poison her child's mind against her by depicting her as a murderer.

FEW EXAMINED ON TUESDAY FAIL TO PASS EXAMINATION

Only Three Out of Twenty-six Examined Tuesday Morning Are Rejected, Two Being Under Weight and One Diseased.

The work of examining registrants was resumed Tuesday morning, and out of the first 26 men examined, only three failed to pass, two being under weight and one suffering from disease.

The few found physically unfit was a surprise, inasmuch as the number on Monday was about three times as great.

Men who failed to pass the examination are not excused from further consideration, and in all probability some of them at least, will be asked by the District Board to report at some future date for a second examination.

Likewise those who passed must again be examined by Federal authorities before finally accepted, and this is expected to weed out a few who are defective.

The results up to three o'clock Tuesday afternoon are given below:

FAIR GROUNDS WILL BE OPEN EACH NIGHT

Columbus, O., Aug. 7.—The Ohio State Fair this year, which will be held August 27-31, will be open every night during the week. The grounds will be brilliant lighted, and there will be extra amusements for all during the evening hours. The decision to give more attention to the night fair this year is because the show is going to be too large for any person to see properly during the day time. When people from out of town come to attend the fair they want to see it all. They are anxious to do so in the least possible time, yet do it thoroughly. Under the new plan visitors can enter the grounds as early as 6 o'clock and remain until late at night which will give them ample opportunity of visiting every one of the many departments. The sale of exhibit space this year is the largest in the history of the state, and indications are that the show will be an unusual one in every department.

COAL PRICES

(By American Press)

Washington, Aug. 7.—A report just issued by the United States geological survey on Ohio coal production in 1915 has an interesting bearing on the rates which the coal production committee of the council of national defense established recently as its idea of an equitable charge for coal to the consumers.

While the coal production committee was willing that a rate of $3.50 should be established at the mine, the geological survey states that the average value of Ohio coal produced in 1915, which is the last year for which statistics are available, was $1.88 per ton, which was 5 cents per ton less than in 1914.

In no county of Ohio did the average value per ton in 1915 exceed $2. In Portage and Summit counties the average value reached $2. In other counties average prices varied as follows: Belmont county, 99 cents; Athens, $1.07; Carroll, $1.14; Columbiana, $1.14; Coshocton, $1.26; Gallia, Morgan and Scioto counties, $1.04; Guernsey 99 cents; Harrison, $1.03; Hocking, $1.07; Holmes, $1.35; Jackson, $1.52; Jefferson, $1.07; Lawrence, $1.15; Mahoning, $1.78; Medina, $1.93; Meigs, $1.05; Muskingum, $1.07; Noble, $1; Perry, $1.05; Stark, $1.66; Tuscarawas, $1.11; Vinton, $1.13; Wayne, $1.97; small mines, $1.34.

TO TEST DRAFT ACT

(By American Press)

Washington, Aug. 7.—Before the selective service army or any of the state militia are sent abroad the United States supreme court is to be asked to pass on the constitutionality of sending them to sea. If the court holds such action would be unconstitutional, the draft army would be held at home and foreign operations would have to be carried on by the regulars and by men who volunteered for such service.

The constitutional test will be made by cases to be brought in various federal districts. Writs will be sued out in the nature of habeas corpus writs to prevent moving the militia toward foreign destinations. Appeals from these cases will be taken by whichever party loses, and all will be brought together in a hearing before the United States supreme court, which will be expedited in every way possible.

Hannis Taylor, famous constitutional lawyer, has been engaged to handle the question of constitutionality for those who believe the constitution is in danger of being violated. The government has set its best lawyers to work to prepare the government's defense.

OHIO WHEAT CROP A RECORD BREAKER

(By American Press)

Columbus, Aug. 7.—Ohio's wheat crop this year, based on an average production per acre, promises to be the largest in the history of the state. N. E. Shaw, secretary of agriculture, states in his monthly report. Official figures for the estimated area seeded for this year's harvest are 1,550,642 acres, and the production expected is 28,271,574 bushels. On basis of a yield of 20 bushels per acre or more, which Mr. Shaw expects, he predicts that the yield will go to 31,412,860 bushels. This would exceed the ten year average by about 1,000,000 bushels, but in any event the production will be 20 per cent better than the normal average annual yield, his report says.

Corn has been doing fine the last two weeks of warm weather and is reported at 92 per cent compared with average, it is stated. Potatoes will yield 19 per cent above the average. The area planted is 97,015 acres, which should produce 3,218,425 bushels. Oats prospects are placed 19 per cent above the average. Apples and peaches do not promise well.

H. O. Young, former member of congress and leading Republican of Michigan, is dead. Anthracite miners in Lykens valley, Pa., called off a three weeks' strike pending mediation.

A further credit of $10,000,000 was given to the Indian government by the American treasury department.

Million dollar fund raised by the Knights of Columbus for relief of Catholic soldiers and sailors is over-subscribed.

These Are Times of Intelligent Economy

MOST people realize the difference in being economical and being "tight." Being economical does not, altogether, mean saving of money; it may mean the spending of it, wisely.

Herald "Want Ads"

Is one way of spending a little wisely. Through them you may sell what you don't need; buy, at a saving what someone else doesn't need; trade, buy, sell or rent property; find lost article; and the cost is small and results are sure.

WAR SUPPLIES FOR THE ALLIES

(By American Press)

Washington, Aug. 7.—President Wilson received the members of the war industries board at the White House. It was their first conference. Problems the board must face in the purchase of war supplies for this government and the allies were taken up.

The president indicated his idea of the board's functions. One of the points decided was that the allies of the United States should be given the same advantages in the purchases of war materials as this country enjoys.

The board faces a considerable problem in obtaining supplies for the allies at the same price paid by the American government. Already the proposal has brought protests from manufacturers and producers who have agreed to sell to the government at prices lower than the market.

Members of the board are: Frank Scott, Bernard M. Baruch, Hugh Frayne, Robert S. Brookings, R. S. Lovett, Lieutenant Colonel Palmer E. Pierce and Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher. Secretary Daniels also attended the conference.

The question of co-ordinating American and allied purchases will be one of the first to be taken up by the board.

Allied purchases soon will be made by Bernard Baruch, who is to be designated by the allied governments as their buying commissioner. At the same time he will be chairman of a purchasing commission for the American government to be formed of members of the war board with Herbert Hoover as a member in charge of food purchases.

Officials believe that ultimately a system may be evolved under which one man will do all the American and allied buying, members of the war board serving as advisers. Legislation would be required, however, before the government departments could delegate purchases to any person outside of their organizations.

For the present American purchases will be negotiated by the buying commission but contracts for the army and navy will be signed by their representatives on the war board. Shipping board purchases probably will be made by the buying commission itself, as there is no legal obstacle.

REPAIRS STOPPED

(By American Press)

Washington, Aug. 7.—The government's repairs on the interned German steamships seized at the opening of war is at a standstill owing to a general strike of metal trades unions.

When this situation was called to the attention of Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, he said: "It is the manufacturers and ship builders, who pay low wages and work their men long hours, who are to blame. The cost of living goes up $3 a week and when the men ask for a dollar raise they are called unpatriotic. We don't propose to have it put over us." Jobs to convert yachts into submarine chasers also are held up.

SHARP DEBATE IN THE SENATE

(By American Press)

Washington, Aug. 7.—Sharp exchanges marked the debate in the senate on the conference report of the food control bill, and after a prolonged discussion of the measure as finally drafted by the conferees, administration leaders and some of the chief opponents said it probably would be disposed of tomorrow.

Most of the debate was occupied by Democratic senators opposing approval of the conference report. The Republicans were said by their leaders to be almost a unit for immediate and favorable action.

Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, the administration manager, and Senator Gore, Democrat, who has been prominent in the opposition, clashed sharply during the debate, after Senator Reed, Democrat, had made another speech attacking the measure and Herbert C. Hoover. When Senator Gore imputed that the senate conferees had yielded the senate's judgment to that of the president, Senator Chamberlain, in a vehement speech, declared that the Oklahoma senator had consistently obstructed the food bill and other administration measures.

Senator Gore denied obstructing the bill or, as Senator Chamberlain had suggested, the army draft law.

Senator Hollis, who served prominently in drafting the so-called leaders' compromise bill in the senate, announced that he would vote against the conference report because of elimination of his amendment designed to exempt labor unions from the provisions of the bill. He said the labor unions had been ignored by the administration since the war began.

Recession of the senate conference on the provision for a congressional committee to supervise war expenditures, stricken out largely because of the president's strong opposition, was denounced by Senator Hardwick, Democrat, and defended by Senators Williams and Wolcott, Democrats.

Senator Williams declared that there is either more intended than is apparent in the language of the proposal to create the joint committee on war expenditures, or it is unnecessary.

"If it has any ulterior purpose what is it?" he demanded. "It may be to display suspicion and create lack of trust in the executive whose duty it is to carry on the war."

Senator Wolcott declared that the congressional committee during the civil war had abused its power and attempted to dictate the military and naval campaigns.

Senator Reed in his speech directed attention to an interview purporting to have been given by Mr. Hoover in which he threatened to "expose" members of congress who were opposing the bill. Senator Johnson asserted that this interview had been repudiated by Senator Chamberlain on the floor of the senate in a statement furnished him by Mr. Hoover.

"Mr. Hoover never repudiated this statement," replied Mr. Reed. He characterized Mr. Hoover's efforts for passage of the bill as a lobby.

Senators Williams and Wolcott attacked the conferees' report on the bill, declaring it "many times more radical than the original bill." But, singularly enough it leaves out the steel trust, the copper, the Standard Oil, aluminum and binder twine interests," he charged.

"It leaves out the most wicked, most powerful, most potential and the most oppressive of the great trusts of this country."
